Gender

We found many more men than women visited the CRC, potentially because of the greater number of men in the criminal justice system. Between January 2015 and February 2017, men accounted for 70 percent of CRC visits and made up 72 percent of CRC clients.

Exhibit 12 displays the number of CRC visits by client gender.

Visitors Go to the CRC for Basic Services and Entitlements

As seen in Exhibit 21 below, we found that the most frequent reasons for visits to the CRC were to address basic human needs such as housing, food, clothing, hygiene, and transportation, and for State entitlements (e.g., Social Security, retirement and disability insurance, and healthcare).
