

View from the Burke-Gilman Trail

Existing site

Modern and Northwest Coastal

Historic and
Northwest Forest

View from Leary Way Northwest

Existing site

Modern and
Northwest Coastal

Historic and
Northwest Forest

View from Northwest 36th Street and Leary Way Northwest

New bench

Viewing window into building

Uplighting on north side of building

Single driveway and gate

Design Features:

- Building style evokes historic Fremont structures
- Window with view ports into facility, size mimics siphon pipe
- Landscaping evokes park feel
- Screening of facility with views to Ship Canal
- Aluminum rod fence color compliments building
- Replace affected street trees
- Rain garden adjacent to park

View from the Burke-Gilman Trail

Screening trees Burke-Gilman Trail

View from 2nd Avenue Northwest

2nd Ave NW

View from above looking east

NW 36th St

Rain garden

Permeable pavement Grass pavement

View from above looking west

NW 36th St

Screening trees

New benches

This palette represents plants commonly found in the forests of the western Cascade mountains. Douglas Fir and Western Red Cedar provide the framework for an understory layer lush in a mix of evergreen and deciduous shrubs and a ground layer of evergreen plants. Medium size deciduous trees and shrubs provide habitat, shelter, and berries for song birds.

Trees

Vine Maple

Western Red Cedar

Douglas Fir

Indian Plum

Shrubs

Oregon Grape

Snowberry

Pacific Wax
Myrtle

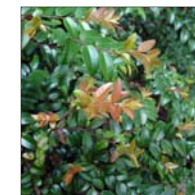

Day Lilly

Nootka Rose

Sword Fern

Ev. Huckleberry

Pacific Rhododendron

Groundcovers

Creeping Raspberry

Kinnickinnick

Non-native plants for color

English Lavender

Drooping Leucothoe

King County

Department of Natural Resources and Parks
Wastewater Treatment Division